GETTING RID OF PESTS

Over the years, we have recommended a host of products and remedies to get rid of pests, including proven techniques supplied to us by our audience. People are increasingly seeking less toxic products and solutions that are effective and environmentally friendly.

In response to a question from a listener who was doing battle with deer, another listener called into our radio program to say that he had excellent results using a product that he had discovered called Liquid Fence® Deer & Rabbit Repellent—one of many American-made, eco-friendly animal repellents manufactured by the Liquid Fence Company. Available as a spray or in granular form, it's USDA field tested and safe for use around your family and pets. In addition to curing your deer problem, it will prevent rabbits from wreaking havoc in your vegetable garden.

They also produce a full line of eco-friendly animal repellents that safely and effectively combat dogs, cats, moles, snakes, geese, ducks and turkeys. And if you're in armadillo country their Armadillo Repellent will give these snout-wielding insectivores the boot! Keep in mind that these products are repellents and are not designed to either harm or kill the animals—simply repel them so that they won't make YOUR home and garden THEIR home and garden.

The more we suggested Liquid Fence products as a solution, the more the testimonials poured in from avid users who experienced favorable results. But Liquid Fence products don't stop at animal repellents. They also produce Liquid Net®, a full line of all-natural DEET-free insect repellents, which contain pleasant-smelling lemongrass, cedarwood and citronella oils. DEET has been linked to neurological damage and can be especially harmful to children. Liquid Net is also available for both pets and horses. And you can protect your entire yard from mosquitos, fleas, ticks and gnats with their Yard Net Lawn & Garden Insect Repellent made from botanical oils.

Liquid Fence also produces an impressive line of organic grow products, weed control solutions, an auto watering system and their 'CowPots'—a plantable and biodegradable seedling container made from 100% renewable composted cow manure. Now, what could be more American-made than that?
